Algorithm for Call Progress Signal Detection
The M-980 is a broad-band, general purpose call progress detector packaged in an 8-pin, monolithic integrated circuit. This application brief presents an example flow chart for determining the specific call progress signal encountered on the switched network by using period measurements.